MPSPC is a community with culture and values that are deeply rooted in their heritage. Participation of students in culture and arts activities is important, as it not only strengthens the preservation of our rich traditions but also plays a big role in addressing the objectives of SDG 11. Through the active involvement of our students in cultural and artistic performances, we empower the youth to be the torchbearers of cultural preservation, social inclusion, and sustainable development.

Cordillera Regional Autonomy Sites

Through the project Mapping and Marking of Historical Sites, MPSPC is instrumental in disseminating historical information to the whole of the Cordillera Administrative Region by installing historical markers at sites where significant events on the struggle for Cordillera Autonomy have happened. These markers were placed in areas that are easily accessed by local and foreign tourists thus, educating individuals about the historical importance of the places they are visiting.

Learning visit of students at Marag Valley, one of the historical sites marked by MPSPC

The Kankanaey Museum of Tadian Campus

MPSPC is also passionate in preserving the Cordilleran culture and heritage. Through the establishment of the Kankanaey Museum, various collections of tangible culture are now exhibited with free public access. Visiting students and groups from the community and from outside are welcome to view and learn the culture and traditions of the Kankanaey ethnolinguistic group of Mountain Province in the Cordillera.

Carpooling

It is a policy of MPSPC to implement carpooling among its employees. The College has allocated 2 vans for employees of the Bontoc campus who are non-Bontoc residents to pick up and bring home employees to the municipalities of Tadian and Sagada and other nearby areas. Walking and cycling to work are also encouraged for those who live in town.

Free Public access to the MPSPC Libraries

The MPSPC Library provides free access not only to students and employees but also to community members and other individuals from other colleges and universities for reading and research purposes. The library houses reference materials as well as research outputs of students, faculty and personnel of the College.

Access to open and green spaces

The MPSPC campuses are blessed with wide and green open spaces that provide the students and employees a feel of nature after school or work. These spaces are also enjoyed by the community during sports and cultural events. It is also noted that during the pandemic, these spaces were utilized by the community as isolation and recreation areas.
